CATCHING THE KERB CRAWLERS

By Lucy Purdy

A CLAMPDOWN on kerb-crawlers who contribute to the on-street prostitution blighting areas of Haringey has netted 24 men who were trawling the streets looking to pay for sex.

The men were arrested during an operation last week targeting the sex trade in Tottenham where women wait on street corners each night in all weathers, offering to sell their bodies to strangers for as little as £20.

In front of a backdrop of various take-aways, betting shops and council flats, Haringey police as well as specialist officers from the Met's clubs and vice unit snared person after person, from all walks of life, each of whom approached a female officer posing as a prostitute and asked her for sex.

Seven Sisters Road has been an established red-light area since the 1940s but various police drives and a funding boost had reduced the problem. Officers described the stretch as an "unknown quantity" before the operation last Wednesday evening, but there seemed to be no shortage of willing customers on the night.

"All of the girls working on the street have accompanying stories," Sergeant Matt Casey explained to the Advertiser as he drove an unmarked police car.

"It's so sad because most have suffered some sort of childhood sexual abuse or come from broken homes. Of the girls I've come to know quite well, some have been on the game for ten or even 15 years.

"There is a massive link with drugs. If it weren't for the need to buy drugs, they wouldn't be putting themselves in that situation. Some of them charge as little as £25 or £20 but they are usually quite flexible in their pricing structure. If they're really desperate for drugs, a customer will probably be able to negotiate."

In line with current Home Office policy which looks upon sex workers more as victims of circumstance than hardened criminals, police officers are instead waging a war on the kerb crawlers who blight local communities and fuel

Plan to make town hall a 'cultural hub' up for debate

By Lucy Purdy

AN APPLICATION to transform Hornsey Town Hall into a "cultural hub" has been lodged with Haringey Council.

The design outlines a vision to restore the grade II-listed building in Crouch End by creating a theatre space, public halls, bars, an improved courtyard and new housing. It is currently being considered by council officers and members of the public can also make their views known.

Council leader Claire Kober said: "Hornsey Town Hall is a much-loved local landmark and has the potential to be at the heart of plans to improve Crouch End and broaden Haringey's cultural landscape. We will be closely scrutinising the plans to make sure they are able to deliver real change for the better – not just for Crouch End, but for the whole of Haringey."

Hornsey Town Hall is a much-loved local landmark.

"We encourage everyone to take a close look at the plans and to have their say on proposals. All comments will be carefully considered by the planning committee when it makes a decision on the application."

An exhibition of the plans will be at Hornsey Library, in Haringey Park, later this month and the application can also be viewed online at www.haringey.gov.uk/planning and at Haringey Council's planning office at 639 High Road, Tottenham.

Comments can be submitted online or in writing to: Hornsey Town Hall application, Haringey Council, 639 High Road, London N17 8BD.

Escaped mental patient still on the loose

A DANGEROUS mental patient who stabbed a man to death in Tottenham last year is still at large after escaping from custody nine days ago.

Police have repeated a call for help in tracing 20-year-old Fida Mohammed Utmanzi who managed to breach security at the North London Clinic, in Church Street, Edmonton at just before 7.30pm last Monday.

Despite widespread appeals to trace him, officers have yet to find Utmanzi.

Utmanzi was born in Afghanistan and was last seen wearing a black Adidas tracksuit with white stripes on the sides, a navy hooded top and grey trainers. He is 6ft 1in tall, thin with short black hair. He is also known to have cigarette burns on his arms.

He has previous connections to the Tottenham, Fulham and Putney areas of London. He has also spent time in Newcastle.

On the run: Utmanzi should not be approached

He was detained under the Mental Health Act indefinitely after being convicted at the Old Bailey on January 8 of the manslaughter of Rasool Khan. Mr Khan was stabbed to death at an address in West Green Road on March 3 last year.

Members of the public are advised not to approach Utmanzi, but to call police immediately on 999. Alternatively, call detectives on 07717 483 332 if you have information that could assist the search.

the chaotic lifestyles of the vulnerable women involved. About 50 officers were involved in Haringey's own four-night war on sleaze which focused on the areas around Seven Sisters Road, Green Lanes and Lawrence Road.

Around 15 minutes after the decoy first takes up position, a 38-year-old black man approaches her and asks the crucial, crude question. "Offence complete" is heard over the radio and we race around the corner to see him arrested. You can see the cogs turning in the man's mind as he realises the woman he spoke to just moments before was not as she seemed.

"That was pretty quick – he's obviously an early riser, pardon the pun," said Sgt Casey as the first of many was read his rights and taken to Wood Green police station.

Among the sheepish men stopped by officers during the week were taxi drivers, hairdressers, salesmen, builders, a chef, an engineer, a plasterer, a printer, a farm worker and even a nurse, mainly from Haringey, Enfield and Waltham Forest but also from as far afield as Harrow and Ilford.

Watching them shuffle through the custody process with heads bowed, it was hard to imagine their actions being too far-reaching but the Haringey Council-funded operation was set up in response to concern from neighbours about prostitution on their doorsteps. In Bruce Grove, St Ann's and Tottenham Green SNTs, residents earmarked prostitution as a priority.

"Do I have any sympathy for these men?" said Sgt Casey. "No. Their actions directly create so much hardship and so many problems for other people. The money these guys pay is going straight into the pockets of drug dealers. All we're doing is giving them an opportunity to commit an offence. Some of them will claim they have been tricked by entrapment and agent provocateur or whatever, but the tape will prove they haven't."

Evidence shows dealing with the prostitutes alone has limited effect – they will be driven to sell themselves even more to earn money for drugs and pay court fines on top so are stuck in a vicious cycle.

"It is a two-pronged approach," confirmed Sgt Casey. "We'll arrest street girls but an endless cycle of getting arrested, prosecuted and fined gets tired. We want to target their lifestyles by trying to get them on drug programmes and rehoused. By targeting customers in this way, they are more likely to engage in diversionary tactics."

Unlike the women working in brothels, the vast majority of street sex-workers such as those in Tottenham are British-born. After meeting a man on the street, they will go to an alleyway or car park to have sex and then use the money to fund their drugs habits.

"Often their boyfriends will be on crack too and will share the money in return for some sort of security for the girl while she's working," explained Sgt Casey.

Because liaisons between prostitutes and their clients take place in quiet and deserted spots, they are often at risk of attack. Not only are kerb-crawlers unpredictable and often aggressive, they are more likely than most to carry knives or other weapons. As well as the risks of sexually transmitted diseases and of using contaminated needles, women on the streets face victimisation by passers by as well as the vulnerability inherent in being outside alone and in all temperatures.

A recent study of prostitution in five countries found two thirds of women involved reported being raped and 73 per cent had experienced physical violence. But even the punters are taking risks.

Sgt Casey added: "Some of the girls are clippers who act as prostitutes, loitering and talking to men, but have no intention of having sex with them. They'll go to the alleyway or wherever, where she'll take their money or take them to a dark corner where her boyfriend might be waiting with a knife.

girls. Another asked us to rush him through custody because his girlfriend was in labour.

"Some feel a sense of injustice but most are just embarrassed and want to get out as soon as possible."

The greying, married man, arrested in St Ann's Road, is booked in by custody sergeant Tim Hannah, fingerprinted, swabbed, and answers questions about his criminal past, employment and health and then is asked if anyone should be notified of his arrest. A look of panic crosses his faces as he answers: "I don't want my wife to know. She will divorce me. I don't want anyone to know."

The men will now go through the courts where they will probably receive a fine and may even manage to pay it without their wives and girlfriends finding out.

For them it is only a temporary humiliation but for the women waiting in the cold every night, placing themselves at risk in so many ways, it is a miserable way of life.

SPURS midfielder Luka Modric joined schoolchildren and volunteers to celebrate the latest stage of a £2million investment in an area of Tottenham Marshes.

The player visited Clendish Woods to celebrate the newly developed landscape which has benefited from a project partly funded by the Forestry Commission's London Tree And Woodland grant scheme and supported by the club.

Improvements to the woodland are part of a £2m project by the Lee Valley Regional Park Authority to improve the area, which is already five years in.

Luka met excited children from Sunrise Primary School, based in nearby Coniston Road and described Tottenham Marshes as the "ideal spot" for families to get out and enjoy their local parks.

The improvements include a 220-yard woodland path, tree planting and a five-year woodland management plan.

LVRPA project manager Janet Green said: "We're delighted that Luka Modric and Tottenham Hotspur supported the event and were on hand to highlight the range of leisure and recreational activities here."

She hopes to boost the number of people visiting the area to play sports, spot wildlife or

Further improvements will include a new pathway across the car park, a new building for canoe and cycle hire, and a café, although funding is still being arranged for these.

Rise up to the £1 challenge

Group's £100k target to resurrect Rise festival

By Lucy Purdy

THOSE hoping to resurrect the anti-racism Rise Festival in Finsbury Park are calling for donations of £1 to ensure the event's legacy lives on.

Since the festival was cancelled by London Mayor Boris Johnson in April last year, the UpRise team have been working hard to put on a free music, arts and culture event to keep the "essence of the historic Rise Festival intact".

Organisers are now asking members of the public to help them in their efforts to raise £100,000 by the end of March – vital to fund an UpRise event this summer. One of the organisers and Finsbury Park resident, Mike Barnard, said: "We are passionate about keeping the memory of Rise alive through UpRise and we know that thousands of Londoners feel the same way. Although we are asking for a lot of money, if each of the 100,000 people who attended Rise Festival in 2008 donated just £1, we would reach our target."

"With the Mayor of London

Shining example: UpRise represents London's diversity slashing funding for a series of cultural events and a rise in publicity for far-right views, UpRise aims to display the true picture of London, which is that of a united, vibrant and diverse leading capital city. We want the festival to once again be a landmark event in London's calendar, as it was for the 14 years prior to its cancellation."

London beatboxer Beadyman, who has performed at Rise

Festival in the past, added: "Bring back Rise, London really needs it, and the world needs more festivals like it."

Support has already been secured from a number of groups who were previously involved in Rise, including the Trades Union Congress, which established the original Rise Festival in 1996.

Lift firm: 'We're responsible for death of banker'

By Lucy Purdy

A LIFT company has admitted causing the death of a City banker from Highgate who was crushed to death seven years ago.

Katarzyna Woja was killed in March 2003 as she stepped out of a lift at Broadgate Health Club in central London. She was dragged between a wall and the lift when it suddenly dropped and then stopped between two floor levels.

Last week, on what would have been the first day of its trial, representatives from ThyssenKrupp Elevator UK admitted breaching health and safety laws and causing the 32-year-old's death. Ms

Woja's widower Nebojsa Dorontic, 39, told reporters outside Southwark Crown Court the eleven-hour plea robbed the family of justice. He said: "Our family will never know what exactly happened. This is a bitter pill. We feel robbed of justice."

"By not having a full trial, the remaining members of Katarzyna's family and I may never know why she died and that's the least we deserve."

"After seven long years, the companies involved have walked away determined never to explain why simple maintenance wasn't carried out that would have saved my wife's life. He added: "My wife was a charming and intelligent woman with whom I was very much in love. She went to work that morning as usual but by lunchtime my life had been ripped apart."

The firm will be sentenced on May 14, with gym company Holmes Place Health Clubs which has already admitted three charges under the Health and Safety at Work Act.

A YOUNG woman from Hornsey has been evicted from her flat and banned from the Campsbourne estate after a string of violent and anti-social behaviour incidents.

Nikita Broderick, also known as Bradeesha Broderick, allowed people to congregate in her flat in Campsfield House, played loud music and littered communal staircases with rubbish and broken glass. Broderick's behaviour left neighbours frightened to leave their homes after dark as guests loitered near her property, smoking cannabis and drinking alcohol.

Things escalated when 20-year-old Broderick attacked a neighbour, breaking his ribs and shoulder and cutting his head deeply. The man was placed in emergency temporary housing and was eventually permanently moved out of the area, such was the concern for his safety.

Councillor Nilgun Canver, cabinet member for enforcement and safer communities, said:

Violent, noisy neighbour is evicted from estate after her brave victims come forward

"This woman made the lives of others unbearable so I'm delighted we were able to help them deal with this problem. The residents and police were particularly helpful."

After unsuccessful attempts to contact Broderick, the council team liaised with the police and she was arrested, charged and taken into custody for a number of offences. While she was in prison, it was reported that she had carried out a robbery and assault on a young person living on the estate so she was also charged in connection with this offence.

The council applied for possession of her property which was granted by a judge and she was evicted from the property.

Vendor who made thousands of fake T-shirts is jailed

A MAN who made counterfeit T-shirts in his Tottenham factory to sell to Queen, Led Zeppelin and Guns N' Roses fans has been ordered to spend 15 months behind bars.

Mark Blenkiron was jailed for manufacturing and supplying counterfeit T-shirts after trading standards officers were tipped off that fakes being sold at Camden Market originated from Haringey. Investigations revealed that 46-year-old Blenkiron and his company Shock Horror Limited, based in Conway Road, were running a thriving T-shirt manufacturing business and flogging their dodgy wares wholesale at markets as well as online.

Blenkiron, currently living in Parr Road, Norwich, had pleaded guilty to 14 offences under the Trade Marks Act 1994.

Councillor Nilgun Canver, cabinet member for enforcement and safer communities at Haringey Council, described the conviction as a "major success" for the trading standards team. She said: "The courts are sending out a clear message to counterfeiters that these types of offences are serious and will be severely punished."

"Not only has this man been sent to prison, but he may well have to pay back all the money he made dishonestly."

Council officers raided the printing factory with the help of Haringey police and they found thousands of printed T-shirts, printing machines, hundreds of silk screens and artwork templates bearing the names and trade marks of many famous bands. A second search warrant was carried out at a flat in Westbury Avenue, Wood Green, which at the time was home to Blenkiron and was also the company's registered office. Computers and business documents were seized.

In court on March 8, Judge Fraser Morrison gave credit to Blenkiron's guilty plea but sentenced him on the basis of the 8,648 T-shirts seized, which had an estimated street value of £43,000.

A Proceeds of Crime Act investigation has now been started by Haringey police's financial investigation unit in partnership with Haringey trading standards. This could eventually mean that Blenkiron would have to give up all the money he has made from selling counterfeit shirts.

Book tells bleak tale of gang life

By Lucy Purdy

A NIGHTMARISH vision of life in a north London gang is the subject of a the debut novel by a young author from Wood Green.

Playground, written by 24-year-old Sam Bonner, tells the story of 17-year-old Jonah's return to the London council estate of his childhood. Gone are the times of hanging around outside fried chicken shops and loitering in the park with his friends, shootings, rape, robbery and drug-induced violence are now their pastimes of choice. The disturbing tale of life on the streets is designed to shock says Sam, who wanted to transform real issues into literary horror.

"I knew Playground was going to be a dark tale and I loved the idea of using real issues as the horror at the core of the book," he explained. "Ultimately, the story is about peer pressure, the dark powers of persuasion, and the lure of greed. I wanted to avoid making another disposable cliché about Boyz N' The Hood, and focus on making the characters believable and three-dimensional."

Sam used his own experiences of growing up on the Noel Park housing estate, where he still lives, as inspiration for the novel – although it is not strictly autobiographical.

Playground is his first novel after graduating from London Metropolitan University in 2008 with a degree in film studies and creative writing. A longstanding obsession with horror films as well as books by Stephen King, Clive Barker, H P Lovecraft and Dean Koontz also informed the novel.

"Good writing teaches an author one thing – always tell the truth," explained Sam.

"So, the language became vulgar, the violence graphic, and the sexual deviancy is depraved and abject. I wanted to haunt the reader, to make something potent enough to grab the attention of the public. I love being scared, it's a bit morbid really!"

Playground is published by Empiricus Books and is priced at £9.99 in major bookshops. Visit www.januspublishing.co.uk to find out more.

Jaw-droppingly bad

My Last Five Girlfriends (12A)

Dir: Julian Kemp
Starring: Brendan Patricks, Naomie Harris, Jane March

"THE worst is not, so long as we can say, 'This is the worst'".
King Lear

A month ago I had the deep misfortune of attending a screening of Leap Year – one star. "The only good thing about that," I muttered darkly, as I drank myself through the after-shock, "Is that I won't see anything as bad for the rest of the year..." Pity the fool.

Little was I to know that the mischievous God of Film had planned something so brain rottenly dull, so miserably inept at locating one's funny bone it would make Leap Year look like a heartbreaking epic of staggering genius.

Allegedly a comedy this lamer-than-my-dead-dog Brit flick is based upon Alain De Botton's novel, Essays In Love, and is also a rip-off of High Fidelity and most Hugh Grant films.

Described as a "unique and extraordinary story" (now that's funny) it details boring Duncan Anderson's review of his last five girlfriends.

There's Wendy, who he meets on a plane and impresses her with the fact he once collected airline sick bags; Rhona, who likes shoes but can't bear the fact he doesn't like her latest pair; Natalie who is quite anal and...no. I can't go on. It really is just too depressing.

Score bore: Duncan's (Brendan Patricks) love life is as flat as the film

None of them are interesting and therefore the perfect complement to charmless Duncan who, unsurprisingly, seems to have zero friends and is so self-absorbed that we join him contemplating suicide because the last one dumped him. Get a life you pathetic loser.

In a desperate attempt to enliven the comatosed script of sheer nothingness Julian Kemp – who also directed this drivel, take a bow Jules – gets really kooky and tries every technique in the book including: characters talking to camera, quirky animations, playing scenes as adverts or old film clips and even inviting Johnny Ball to make Johnny Ball-like observation on the action. I mean, PLEEEEEEEAASSEE!

Badly written, directed, filmed, acted, and edited I cannot think of one good thing to say about this perfectly dreadful 86 minutes that only the most mentally unstable would actually pay to see.

By Jonathan Lovett

Now Showing...

Shutter Island (15)

Martin Scorsese rivals Johnny Depp (below) for the Crazy Crown in this bizarre, Gothic melodrama set on a prison island in the mid 50s. Always watchable it gradually reveals its own insane logic with performances from Leonardo DiCaprio, Mark Ruffalo and a sinister Ben Kingsley.

Alice in Wonderland (PG)

Tim Burton's dark vision is let down by a conventional script that borrows from every fantasy adventure of the last decade. Still, there's lots to enjoy particularly Helena Bonham Carter and Johnny Depp fighting for the Utterly Bonkers Crown as the Red Queen and Mad Hatter.

One of the worst films of any damn year. Ghostly rom-com about an American who goes to Ireland because, apparently, Irish girls can propose to their suitors on February 29.

The Lovely Bones (12A)

Peter Jackson's disappointing adaptation of the Alice Sebold bestseller is a saccharine mess that's lost its edge. A murdered 14-year-old tries to help the living bring her killer to justice.shorts

Short and sweet films to reel us in

LIGHTS... camera... action!

Over the years, the Wood Green International Short Film Festival has developed its reputation to the point where it's now one of the premier short film events in the world.

Returning for an eighth year next weekend the prestigious event does seem like it's getting bigger and better and this year an extra sprinkling of razzmatazz is added with the awards ceremony and closing gala held at the iconic Alexandra Palace.

Eighteen countries will be represented in the international category – making this the most yet – while The Youth Film Day returns on the Saturday boasting three sessions covering Q&A and more than 20 youth created films, while various film workshops for budding Mike Leighs are being held in Wood Green Central Library.

Once again there are many fine representatives from the UK, a section on Sunday devoted to animation and the experimental called Pushing The Boundaries, with the documentary and factual getting their own slot on the Sunday.

My favourite section, however, still retains its rightful slot as the festival's curtain-raiser – the local filmmakers category.

Eight films are presented for your delectation next Thursday from 8.30pm in Cineworld including the pitch perfect 13-minute gem, Modern Life Is Rubbish, directed by Daniel J. Gill from Crouch End.

There's plenty more going on in the festival – too much for this brief introduction – so for more details call the Haringey Film Office on 020 8489 6903 or visit www.woodgreenfilmfestival.co.uk

KINGS TV IS LAUNCHED!

Kings have recently launched their very own interactive property TV station on the Kings Group website. The idea behind this is that whether you are a prospective homeowner thinking about selling your property, a buyer wanting to avoid many of the pitfalls of purchasing a new home, a landlord venturing into the rental market or a tenant looking to rent, you can visit our website and find short property films. Here there is free information that will answer many of your questions or queries.

Once you have done so, if there are any further questions you may have, you can contact any of our respective offices and pose your question, be it by email, telephone or that long forgotten method "in person".

If you are selling or renting your property we now offer the only publicised short interactive film channels whereby we can portray your own property. This new ground breaking and innovative way is just the added presentation your home requires. Attracting more viewers and potentially a higher selling price or rental agreed figure from prospective purchasers and tenants alike. This also allows them to really "get a feel" for what these properties offer prior to a viewing, thereby resulting in "a better quality of viewing", meaning there is genuine interest from the start and less time wasting for landlords and sellers.

Why not contact one of our managers at your relevant local office to discuss how Kings TV could help you maximise your audience and attain the highest sale or rental price you're looking for.

Kings TV "it's your channel"!

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.

2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.

To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.

3. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:

- (a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
- (b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or
- (c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.

4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.

5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.

6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.

7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.

8. All gross advertising rates (except classified lineage and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.

9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.

10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.

11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.

12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.

13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.

(1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.

(2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.

14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.

15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.

16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.

17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.

18. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers

Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies.

Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category

All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection

The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors.

Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.

Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

HUDD PENS NEW DEAL

SPURS midfielder Tom Huddlestone has committed his long-term future to the club by signing a new contract which will keep him at White Hart Lane until 2015.

The 23-year-old has been in fine form this season, playing an integral role in Tottenham's push for a top-four finish in the Premier League, starting 26 times – although he has been recently sidelined with an ankle injury picked up two weeks ago in the victory over Everton.

Huddlestone was already under contract until 2013, but has put pen to paper to keep him at the club for the next five years.

Meanwhile, Huddlestone is likely to be joined in midfield next season by Brazilian Sandro, with his club Internacional looking to finalise a deal with Tottenham for the transfer of the player.

The 21-year-old has been a long-term target for manager Harry Redknapp, who is short of central midfielders in his squad, with Huddlestone, Jermaine Jenas and Wilson Palacios the only recognised players for that role.

Redknapp has been chasing Sandro for the past 12 months, but after missing out last summer and again in the January transfer window, the two clubs look set to finally thrash out a deal at the end of the season.

"It has been possible since last year and now we are set to realise it," Internacional president Vitorio Piffero confirmed to Brazilian radio station Radio Guaiba.

"We are concluding the contracts now, but nothing is signed yet and we have to wait."

Tottenham travel to Stoke City on Saturday (3pm).

'Boro denied by injury-time goal

ONLY an injury-time goal denied Haringey Borough victory at home to table-topping Chalfont St Peter on Saturday as their dramatic improvement in form continued with a 1-1 draw in this Spartan Premier Division clash.

Clearly lifted by their record-breaking 8-0 win over Hillingdon Borough in their previous outing on Tuesday last week, Haringey broke the deadlock after just 12 minutes on Saturday when Adam Scotcher swept home a cross-shot to finish off a move down the right.

Chalfont offered little as an attacking threat in the first half – although Barry Brosnan should have done better when he fired over from just yards out – but they put Borough under much more pressure after the interval.

However, while they did have two strong penalty appeals turned down, the visitors still struggled to break down a Borough rearguard which was superbly marshalled by the outstanding central defender partnership of Bosun Adebaki and Diatomba Denteli.

Home keeper Brian Sealey was forced to make a couple of good saves, but it looked as if Borough would hang on to claim a notable scalp until they were thwarted in the second minute of injury time when Daniel Hughes powered the ball home following a corner to rescue a point for the leaders.

Haringey Borough host Royston Town tomorrow (7.45pm), before going to Oxhey Jets on Saturday (3pm).
